February Lecture Luncheon February 13, 2018 11:30 a.m. UMC Room 235

Ever Seen a Ghost? - Influence of Culture and Religion on Haunting as Related to the Writing of One Short Sleep Past

Speaker: Dr. Daphne Low: an author/publisher. She holds a Ph.D. in social/clinical psychology. She has practiced as a clinician in Chicago, and has taught social and cross-cultural psychology at the University of Montana, University Sains Malaysia, and Nanyang University in Singapore.

Dr. Low asks "Ever Seen a Ghost?" She will discuss the influence of culture and religion on haunting as it related to the writing of One Short Sleep Past. The book is a work of fiction set in the historic mining town of Leadville circa 1890s and in today's Denver. The story is told in three voices, each a compelling narrative in the three intersecting lives, bridging a common bond across time and space.

You won't want to miss this talk by Dr. Low, or this psychological drama.

President's Message

The University Women's Cub has supported the University of Colorado in a variety of ways since its inception. Last month I described some social activities the Club hosted for the campus community. In the past the UWC has also raised funds for building renovations. One outstanding example is the Club's contribution to the renovation of Cottage #1, now known as the Hazel Gates Woodruff Cottage.

Built in 1884-85 to provide housing for women students, Cottage #1, the "Ladies Cottage," provided unfurnished sleeping rooms for twelve women along with a bath and an office for a chaperone or house mother. The sleeping rooms were upstairs; downstairs contained a large kitchen, several parlors, and a large dining room. Soon the downstairs rooms were occupied by the Women's League, the Boulder YWCA (which was founded there), and the Dean of Women, who worked and resided there.

In 1924 the Cottage was renovated and became known as the Women's Building. Although sororities were established in the early 1900s, providing housing alternatives for women, Cottage #1 was the only women's dormitory at CU until 1934, when a larger residence hall was built. With the construction of the larger dormitory, the Woman's Building became a women's center, providing a focus for women's activities on the campus and community, and eventually housing CU's Department of Home Economics. It is currently the home of the Women and Gender Studies Program.

By the 1990s the Cottage was on the demolition list, which galvanized efforts to save it because of its historic significance and its beautiful Victorian detailing. In 1992 the UWC became involved in the rescue efforts and in 1995 conducted a fundraising campaign to support the million-dollar renovation. The Club raised nearly $13,000.

Some UWC contributions were made in honor of M. Helen Carpenter, and the Cottage has a M. Helen Carpenter Reading Room. Helen Carpenter was a member of the Club for at least 68 years, and the Club's 75th Anniversary Book From Year to Year contains some of her reminiscences. She graduated from CU in 1922 and worked for the University for 46 years. Because she was staff, she was not eligible to join the Faculty Women's Club (our name at that time), but an exception was made and she was admitted to the Club in 1924.

In its thank you note for the UWC's efforts, the CU Foundation sent a letter stating "The overall contribution by the UWC to this project transcends a dollar amount. The outpouring of support for the Cottage renovation has been invaluable to our overall success. UWC members have served this project in a multitude of ways: as volunteers, as donors, as committee members, and as advocates. Your support of the restoration of this lovely building can be counted as yet another chapter in the chronicle of important contributions and service your organization has provided to the University over the last 77 years."

In our chronicle of the Club's one-hundred-year history, we should document the contributions the UWC has made to CU. For example, it has also contributed to renovations of Macky

Auditorium and to the purchase of books for CU Libraries. If you have information about such contributions, please let me know.

Scholarship Co-Chairs' Message

Let's make 2018 a banner year!

This year the UWC Scholarship Program got a nice boost from the UWC decision to raise dues by $5 and donate that $5 per member to the Scholarship Fund. The fund provides assistance for non-traditional CU students (older students who had a break in their education for personal or financial reasons) to continue their education. The additional funds from dues/donations will be important, but we hope that UWC members continue to make additional donations throughout the year! Your generous donations last year allowed UWC to allocate $28,000 to scholarships.

Donating is easy! You can send a check, you can include a donation with your lecture-luncheon payment (save a stamp), or, if you are reading this online, you can click on the "donate to UWC" button on the home page (boulderuwc.org) and make a special contribution.

UWC is very proud of how we can help these nontraditional students. Our scholarship students are already academically strong, persistent, have vision, and are future leaders.

You can meet this year's students at the April scholarship luncheon and learn from them directly how UWC scholarships help them achieve their educational dreams.

Tell Me More—Book Recommendations from the Book Groups

In November we published a list of fiction books recommended by some of our book groups. Following are some favorite non-fiction works recommended by our groups from last year's selections. Remarks come mostly from the Boulder Library Catalog.

BIOGRAPHY and MEMOIR:

Infidel by Ayaan Hirsi Ali

In this profoundly affecting memoir, Ayaan Hirsi Ali tells her life story, from her traditional Muslim childhood in Somalia to her intellectual awakening in the Netherlands to her life under armed guard in the West.

Let's Not Go to the Dogs Tonight: An African Childhood by Alexandra Fuller

The author remembers her African childhood with visceral authenticity. Though it is a diary of an unruly life in an often inhospitable place, in wry and sometimes hilarious prose, she stares down disaster and looks back with rage and love at the life of an extraordinary family in an extraordinary time.

Thomas Jefferson: The Art of Power by Jon Meacham

In this magnificent biography, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author brings vividly to life an extraordinary man and his remarkable times. The book presents Jefferson the politician and president, a great and complex human being, forever engaged in the wars of his era. Philosophers think; politicians maneuver. Jefferson's genius was that he was both and could do both, often simultaneously. Such is the art of power.

Victoria the Queen by Julia Baird

An account of the life of the English monarch offers insight into the passionate and sensuous aspects of her character, placing her reign against a backdrop of dynamic world events while sharing insights into her relationship with Albert and her pivotal role in building the British empire.

Wild Swans: Three Daughters of China by Jung Chang

Chang recounts the evocative, unsettling, and insistently gripping story of how three generations of women in her family fared in the political maelstrom of China during the 20th century.

NON-FICTION

American Nations: A History of the Eleven Rival Regional Cultures of North America by Colin Woodward

An illuminating history of North America's eleven rival cultural regions that explodes the red state-blue state myth. He illustrates and explains why "American" values vary sharply from one region to another.

A Perfect Red: Empire, Espionage, and the Quest for the Color of Desire by Amy Butler Greenfield

A Perfect Red recounts the colorful history of cochineal, a legendary red dye that was once one of the world's most precious commodities. Desperate to find their own sources of the elusive dye, the English, French, Dutch, and other Europeans tried to crack the enigma of cochineal.

Heretic: Why Islam Needs a Reformation Now by Ayaan Hirsi Ali

In what is sure to be her most controversial book to date, Ayaan Hirsi Ali makes a powerful case that a religious Reformation is the only way to end the terrorism, sectarian warfare, and repression of women and minorities that each year claim thousands of lives throughout the Muslim world.

Soldier Girls by Helen Thorpe

Soldier Girls is a groundbreaking account of three women deployed to Afghanistan and Iraq, and how their military service affected their friendship, their personal lives, and their families.

The Invention of Nature: Alexander Von Humboldt's New World by Andrea Wulf

Alexander Von Humboldt (1769-1859), an intrepid explorer and famous scientist of his age, came up with a radical vision of nature, that it was a complex and interconnected global force and did not exist for man's use alone. Ironically, his ideas have become so accepted and widespread that he has been nearly forgotten. Now Andrea Wulf brings the man and his achievements back into focus: his investigation of wild environments around the world; his discoveries of similarities between climate zones on different continents; his prediction of human-induced climate change; his remarkable ability to fashion poetic narrative out of scientific observation; and his relationships with iconic figures such as Simon Bolivar and Thomas Jefferson.

The River of Doubt: Theodore Roosevelt's Darkest Journey by Candice Millard

At once an incredible adventure narrative and a penetrating biographical portrait, The River of Doubt is the true story of Theodore Roosevelt's harrowing exploration of one of the most dangerous rivers on earth. It is a black, uncharted tributary of the Amazon that snakes through one of the most treacherous jungles in the world. Roosevelt accomplished a feat so great that many at the time refused to believe it. In the process, he changed the map of the western hemisphere forever.
