Both of our speakers are part of the Colorado Clinic.

According to the Colorado Clinic website, "Along with traditional pain management, new and cutting edge options are offered including regenerative medicine and stem cell injections, platelet rich plasma therapy, hormone replacement and more!" Dr. Feldman is Triple Board Certified in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Pain Medicine, and Electrodiagnostic Medicine.

Again, per the Colorado Clinic website, "Over twenty exceptional therapies are available for all types of headaches including migraines, tension-type, cervicogenic, medication overuse headaches, and cluster headaches. The newest interventional procedures are offered, which include stem cell therapy and Botox therapy too." Dr. Da Silva is Board Certified in both Neurology and Headache Management, while also being an Assistant Clinical Professor at the University of Colorado.

Please note the EARLY deadline for registration for the January luncheon. It is DECEMBER 22, 2017.

Special meals are available and must be requested in advance: gluten-free or vegetarian options are available. Also, note that we have limited room capacity for our lectures this year.

Please use the form on page 16 for the lecture luncheon registrations. Especially include the date, name, and type of SPECIAL MEAL (Gluten-Free or Vegetarian), if one is needed. The special meals are carefully counted out by the catering service. If you did not sign up for one, it may not be available for you. Those who signed up will have a special sticker on their nametag. Sorry but only GF and Vegetarian diets are included per our catering service.

President's Message

As you now have noticed, the December Lecture Luncheon, traditionally held in December, will be held in January. December is usually full of special activities and visits with family, and the Board thought moving the December luncheon to January might help reduce members' overcrowded December schedules.

Please let a Board member know if you prefer a December or January luncheon – or, perhaps, would like to have both.

December used to be one of the busiest times for the University Women's Club. In the early days (the 1920s), the Club had a Christmas Party, which morphed into a Christmas Ball. In the late 1930s, the President of CU and the Regents asked the Faculty Women's Club (now UWC) to plan and organize a Christmas Party open to all employees of the University, paid for with University funds. It was one of the biggest social events of the year. The party was an elaborate affair held on several floors of the University Memorial Center.

Games were played in the basement and there was dancing to a live orchestra in the Glenn Miller Ballroom. Club members had the responsibility for planning the entire event, picking the orchestra, creating the decorations, and selecting the refreshments. The ballroom was transformed in accordance with a theme.

In September 1979, due to actions taken by the State Legislature, CU President Rautenstrauss received notice that "The State fiscal rules specifically prohibit a Christmas party, dances or receptions sponsored with 'State funds' for its employees." So, after forty years, the Christmas Party was discontinued.

Eleven years later, in 1990, UWC Past President Marilee Dunn revived the tradition, and the Club held a Winter Party in the Glenn Miller ballroom with dancing, wine, and dessert. No longer a campus-wide party, invitations were sent just to UWC members and members of the Retired Faculty Association. Chancellor James Corbridge and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Bruce Ekstrand contributed to the event because it promoted a feeling of community on the CU-Boulder campus. That year a local artist created a sculpture that was used as centerpiece and donated it to be auctioned off as a way to raise money for the UWC Scholarship Fund. The Party was attended by 230 guests.

The Club continued to hold elaborate, themed Winter Parties in the Glenn Miller Ballroom supported in part by the Chancellor and Vice Chancellor until 1996. In 1994 the theme was Gaudy Night, referring to Dorothy Sayers' masterpiece British mystery. Individuals were chosen to play the parts of her main characters, Lord Peter Wimsey and Harriet Vane.

In 1997 and 1998, even though the event was still supported by the Chancellor and Vice Chancellor, the venue was changed to the Broker Inn for reasons I could not discover. The venue was not large enough to meet the demand. In 1999-2000, the Winter Party was held in February at the Boulder Country Club. Interest had clearly waned as the event was cancelled the next year, revived again in February 2002, again at the Boulder Country Club with a cost of $40 per person. That was the last UWC Winter Party.

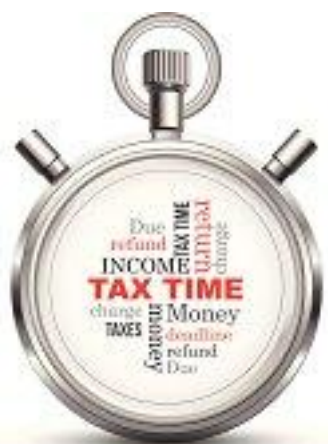

If you are interested in the history of the UWC, please let Kathleen Newton know, as a group of members are organizing to research the Club's history in preparation for our centennial.

Wishing you happy holidays.

Scholarship Co-Chairs' Message

Year-End Tax Planning with UWC Scholarship Fund

As December 31 approaches, many of us think about making donations to benefit local organizations and save on income taxes. Why not put the University Women's Club Scholarship Fund on the top of your list of beneficiaries? Contributing to UWC Scholarships provides you with the opportunity to support a returning, nontraditional CU student for an entire school year.

We have all experienced the value of education in our lives. A UWC Scholarship extends the same opportunity to a deserving student who is dedicated to achieving his or her education goals. Contributing has never been easier. You can simply donate online, via the UWC website link using your credit card! You can make your donation as a tribute "in honor of" or "in memory of" a deserving friend or loved one, or give it as the holiday gift for someone who has everything! Donations over $50 will receive a tax-benefit acknowledgement. All donors will be recognized in MESSAGES.

Your donation will multiply its effect many times over as UWC Scholarship students complete their education, graduate, then pay the benefits forward. Thanks, as always, for your gracious generosity to our deserving students.

Becky Palmer and Merry Bullock Scholarship Co-Chairs

A Scholarship Donor in October, not previously posted in MESSAGES is Dawn Maloney

Please note that if you donated in November, your name should appear in the February issue of MESSAGES. Also, for those of you who have donated more than once this fiscal year, we truly appreciate your generosity.

THANK YOU SO MUCH!

Tell Me More—about Happiness in Boulder and Ruth Wright

The November 2017 issue of National Geographic featured a long article by Dan Buettner on “The Search for Happiness” and the world’s happiest places. The USA didn’t make the cut for the top ten countries, but Boulder did come out on top within the USA.

Buettner outlines three types of happiness:

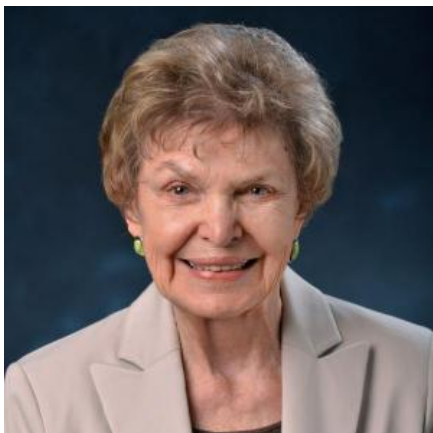

Pleasure: “Experienced happiness” or “positive affect” – enjoying living daily life to the fullest, measured by smiling, laughing, feeling joy.

Purpose: “Eudaimonic happiness” – a life of meaning measured by learning or doing something interesting.

Pride: “Life satisfaction” or “evaluative happiness” – a feeling of well-being. Using a self-rating of one’s life on a scale of 0-10, 7 or higher is considered “thriving.”

According to researchers, much of human happiness is driven by six factors: strong economic growth, healthy life expectancy, quality social relationships, generosity, trust, and the freedom to live the life that’s right for you. The cultural values of the happiest places nurture this. Of 190 US communities, Boulder emerged with the highest level of happiness.

Buettner suggests that other communities “might do well to look to local bright spots to inform national policy.” He listened to Ruth Wright, activist, former Colorado State Legislator, and recipient of the UWC Margaret Willard Award in 2008-09, about how to shape the community to support happiness.

Ruth Wright

Ruth Wright began her Boulder activist career in 1971 when she campaigned against high-rise buildings in downtown Boulder and was successful in limiting building heights to five stories. In the decades since, Boulder has promoted bike riding, established a progressive food policy, worked toward zero waste, and advocated renewable energy.

As activist, legislator, and citizen, Ruth Wright continues to serve as a champion for environment and to question the unquestioned virtue of development. For her “fun is getting things done.”

Buettner sums up the “Boulder brand of happiness: a community of fit, successful, mission-driven people with a clear vision of the good life. Pleasure, purpose, pride – the three strands of happiness.”

Note: The non-fiction book recommendations promised last month will appear in the February MESSAGES.

Margaret Willard Award

How many of you know who Margaret Willard was? Margaret Willard began her career as an English instructor at CU, wife of a CU history professor, and in 1919, she became the first president of an organization titled Faculty Women's Club, which has evolved into a more encompassing group, our University Women's Club. At first the original group concentrate on organizing social events for the campus community, but eventually they became involved in philanthropic matters.

By 1957, the group added fund-raising and expanded its philanthropic work by providing financial loans to women to help them continue their education. In 1982, the UWC began to give scholarships to nontraditional females. We continue this tradition and recently have included men for scholarship consideration. Since 1993, the UWC has presented the Margaret Willard Award to a woman or women who have exemplified the traits of our predecessors, and in doing so, honor all women.

Last year's Margaret Willard Award recipient was Tobey Bassoff, Principal of Ryan Elementary. (See the writeup on Boulderuwc.org/ Previous MESSAGES/May 2017.)

A few of the other winners include Stephanie Rudy, Becky Rosser, Val Havlick, Jennie Thompson, Carlen Penfold, Claudine Garby, Patricia Limerick, Virginia Patterson, and Ceal Barry (Colorado Women's Sports Hall of Fame.)

The University Women's Club presents the Margaret Willard Award annually at the Spring Honors Reception in May. The woman receiving the award must fulfill some or all of the criteria as listed on the nomination form.

Please take some time to think about someone who enhances the quality of life for others in our Boulder Community. There are many professionals and volunteers who every day go out of their way working with or for others.

Some ideas: Who touches your life? Who improves your neighborhood? Who is a leader in their research or practice? Who volunteers for community organizations, maybe the Shelter, Meals on Wheels, tutors at the library? There are so many possibilities in our community!

Nominate! Send me a name and a short description of the person you are nominating. You don't have to know the person well. Maybe you have heard or read about them. Give me a way to get in touch with you, so we can help fill out the particulars. This is a Community Award for someone who embodies the best qualities of women in the community in which we live. Thanks!

See form on Page 17.
