See Page 2 for Details...

Greetings and Happy New Year. After a month's hiatus, it is good to be back in MESSAGES and to be thinking about the remaining Lecture Luncheons of our 2010-11 series. I love the Lecture Luncheon aspect of UWC – what a wonderful way to enjoy a luncheon with friends, focus on intellectually stimulating or emotionally moving topics, and meet interesting and distinguished speakers. Many of our speakers can command hefty lecture fees, yet they willingly agree to join the University Women for lunch, conversation, and presentation, without payment. How good it that!

I'm very sorry to report that the renowned Colorado author, Kent Haruf, our scheduled speaker for March, is recovering from recent surgery and will be unable to appear at this time. I know you all join me in wishing him a comfortable and speedy recovery. Although we will not be able to have him as a guest this year, I encourage you, if you are not already familiar with his work, to read one or more of his books.

Along with numerous short stories, Kent Haruf (rhymes with "sheriff") is the prize-winning author of 4 novels: The Tie that Binds (1984) Where You Once Belonged (1990) Plainsong (1999) Eventide (2004) and, most recently, a unique collaborative work with photographer Peter Brown, West of Last Chance (2007).

Kent Haruf was born in Pueblo, Colorado, and although he lived in many different places in the Midwest, he returned to Colorado and his roots once he began to write full-time. All of his novels take place in the fictional town of Holt on the eastern plains of Colorado. The sense of place is central to his works and is reflected in the spare and subtle style he employs to write about fundamental truths. Haruf has said, "In the plains, things are stripped down to the essentials."

If you read only one of his books, I suggest Plainsong. You will meet characters on whom the personality of Holt itself is built. You are introduced to school teachers Tom Guthrie and Maggie Jones, Tom's boys Ike and Bobby, the troubled teenager Victoria Robideaux and the wonderful McPheron brothers. You'll savor their interrelationships. A theme that runs through Plainsong and Haruf's other books is connection – whether through family or others with whom we can find comfort and support.

*President's

Another good starting place would be West of Last Chance, Haruf's collaboration with Peter Brown. Peter Brown's photographs of the Great Plains are interspersed with the observations, sketches, jokes, and short stories of Kent Haruf. About the plains, Haruf has said, "You have to know how to look at this country. You have to slow down. It isn't pretty, but it's beautiful." You'll find this concept illustrated not just in this photography book, but in Kent Haruf's novels as well.

If you don't usually attend Lecture Luncheons, please consider joining us this semester. In February, we will host William Wei, Professor of History at CU Boulder. His topic "To Shangri-La and Back: A Historian's Perspective of Tibet" will provide insights into the current geo-political climate of this controversial region. Reservations for February's Lecture Luncheon are due by February 1 (see article, page 2). If you come once, I think you'll find you want to come again. I hope to see you there.

To Shangri-La & Back: A Historian's Perspective of Tibet

William Wei

Tuesday, February 8, 2011, 11:30 a.m.
University Memorial Center, Room 235
(Reservations and payment due February 1)

Drawing from highlights of his recent journey to Tibet, Professor William Wei's lecture will discuss the current geo-political climate of this controversial region of China. Among the topics that he will cover are: Western (mis)perceptions of Tibet, the history of Tibet's relationship to and inclusion in the Chinese empire, China's colonial policies and practices, and the corrosive effect of tourism in Tibet. At the end of his talk, Professor Wei will consider Tibet's future prospects.

A Professor of History at CU, Dr. Wei's primary research interests center on modern China, especially the themes of revolution and counterrevolution. His secondary ones are on Asian America, focusing on Chinese Americans in the context of the overseas Chinese Diaspora. Reflecting these intellectual interests are his major works: Counterrevolution in China: The Nationalists in Jiangxi during the Soviet Period (University of Michigan Press, 1985) and The Asian American Movement (Temple University Press, 1993).

He has held a Rockefeller Fellowship, Mellon Fellowship, and Fulbright-Hays Fellowship. In the summer of 1997, he worked as a journalist covering the historic handover of Hong Kong to China. He has participated in the Semester at Sea program, serving on the faculty in summer 2003 and as Academic Dean in summer 2006.

Volunteer Opportunity to Help Recruit Girls into the Sciences

The AAUW is seeking volunteers to help with their Expanding Your Horizons (EYH) program for 6th, 7th, and 8th grade girls, parents, teachers, and counselors. It will be held at the Engineering Center at the University of Colorado Boulder Campus on Saturday, February 26, 2011. For the students, the conference features three hands-on workshops in science and technology fields, ranging from Physics to Veterinary Medicine, Computer Science to Meteorology. The AAUW takes over the entire Engineering Center at CU Boulder, enrolling about 275 girls from middle schools across the Front Range.

For teachers, parents, and other attending adults, the conference features three informational workshops, in topics ranging from Planning for College to Understanding Adolescent Girls. For many girls, this will be their first time on a college campus. In 2010, of the girls who reported ethnicity, 41% self-reported as Latina. About half of the attendees receive scholarships to cover the registration fee.

The AAUW needs 60 volunteers who will be assigned to a variety of tasks including:

- Posting signs throughout the campus so attendees can find the building.
- Greeting attendees as they enter the building and directing them to the check-in area.
- Checking in students, adults, volunteers and presenters.
- Setting up for the pizza lunch and helping with the post-meal clean up.
- Assisting in the workshops.

If you love to inspire teen girls in science and/or technology fields, this is a great event for you. No teaching or science experience is necessary. In general, all volunteers need to be at the Engineering Center by 9 a.m. and will be finished by 2:15 p.m. If you are interested in participating, contact Mary Humke (303-447-2669; maryhumke@hotmail.com) by February 12.

Thank You from Community Food Share

Community Food Share has sent a big thank you to the 38 UWC volunteers who spent the Sunday before Thanksgiving helping with their annual food drive. The UWC team encouraged shoppers at 11 grocery stores throughout Boulder County to donate to the drive. This year's drive was the most successful in CFS's history, with 130,133 pounds of food and over $18,000 in cash donated. The UWC group met before their shift to share a delicious lunch and to listen to a speaker from CFS who gave a very inspiring overview of how the organization helps those in need. It was a fun and productive afternoon for the participants, sore feet notwithstanding!

Thank You to the following who donated to the UWC Scholarship Fund

(From November 11, 2010 — January 10, 2011)

Each month, MESSAGES will thank our members for donations to the Scholarship Fund that have been received since the previous list was published as noted at the top of the list. If you have made a donation during the noted dates but your name does not appear, please contact Beth Rauch.

Originally from Chicago, Mary Anna first came to CU for graduate study, spent four years in Asia and five in the DC area when she began working for the CU Foundation. Originally an English teacher, her career led her into university advancement at U of Md., CU, and California State University, Fresno. Just retired, she looks forward to more hiking, gardening, creative fun, and bookish pursuits.

Linda Smith

Linda and her husband chose Boulder as a place to live and then found a way to make a living here. Linda and her husband have lived in Boulder since 1973 with the exception of a five year break from 1985 to 1991 when they lived first in Endicott, NY and then Mountain View, CA, moves which confirmed their choice of Boulder as their home. University Women's Club Opera Brunch

Mark your calendar for Sunday, March 13 at 11:00 a.m. to enjoy a delicious brunch followed by the opera, Susannah. Carlisle Floyd's opera is described as an 'apocryphal tale' that pits Susannah's beauty and the attention she evokes against the jealousy and societal/religious expectations of a small Tennessee town in the 1950s. Susannah is filled with 'lush, tuneful Appalachian music' that is certain to haunt and enrich the afternoon.

The brunch will be held at 11:00 a.m. in the new Center for Community on the CU campus, and the opera will be performed in Macky Auditorium at 2:00 p.m.

Spotlight on ...Reader's Theater 2

Our Readers' Theatre groups are like a great play—you anticipate a great evening attending the show and once you're there, you don't want the final curtain to fall!

The first Readers' Theatre was Act 1 and continues to be hugely successful, but in 2008 it had a waiting list for new members. Aspiring readers Patty Ludke and Kathy Randall thought they might find a few others to create a second group. At the Membership Coffee in 2008, a dozen others promptly signed up and Readers' Theatre 2 premiered shortly thereafter.

By the fall of 2010, membership in RT2 had doubled. When nearly everyone showed up for an evening reading of The Dark at the Top of the Stairs in July, the group started discussing ways to provide an offshoot that would offer more opportunities for participation but allow us to stay connected with each other. Our solution was RT2-Afternoon, a "third act" for our Readers' Theatre groups that will share plays (and readers) as needed with RT2-Evening.

Our playlist has included the classics, such as Lysistrata, as well as plays that are just plain fun, such as the sorority murder mystery Nine Girls, set in the 1940s. We've also read, among others, Our Town, A Raisin in the Sun, The Little Foxes, and Enchanted April. In November, we explored Colorado history with a lively reading of Thunder is the Mountain's Voice, set in Estes Park. It's the somewhat fictionalized story of Isabella Bird, an adventurous travel writer in the 1870s, and the rowdy real estate dealings of the times.

Enjoy seeing the Reader's Theater 2 Group in action with these fun video links. When prompted for a password, type in "RT2" (use caps).

Our last joint meeting of RT2-E and RT2-A in December gave us an opportunity to read It's a Wonderful Life from the original radio script, with sound effects provided by our inventive director Claire Marie Martin. We hope to make that an annual tradition.

At each reading of both the RT2-E and RT2-A groups, we take a little time to talk about the play. The director often casts the play in advance and briefly discusses its background. Co-hosts provide a living room and light refreshments. Plays are selected by the group and directors/hostesses volunteer several months in advance; scripts are usually provided for a small annual contribution. No acting experience is necessary!

RT2-E meets on the first or second Monday of each month at 6:30 p.m.; in February, we are reading Uncommon Women by Wendy Wasserstein. Contact Patty Ludke (303-440-9590; pattycake.21@juno.com) or Kathy Randall (303-530-1095; katherineran@gmail.com).

RT2-A meets on the second Sunday of each month at 1:30 p.m. We launch our 2011 season with the over-the-top melodrama Because Their Hearts Were Pure (Or the Secret of the Mine) on Sunday, Feb. 13. Prospective RT2 members are welcome to join us—this play has 15 parts, and readers are needed! Contact Kathy Campbell (541-912-0750; campbeka@gmail.com).

These gestures are one of our ways of expressing care and concern for all our members. Please notify our Hospitality Chair, Virginia Stringi (303-955-1860; vstringi@comcast.net), if you know a member who should be recognized in this manner.

Additional Member Benefits

There are additional benefits for UWC members: 1) an e-mail account through CU, which will provide a CU e-mail address and give you internet access to CU Library electronic resources; and 2) a CU guest Buff Card, which provides patron privileges at Norlin Library. To take advantage of the e-mail account, you must first contract with an Internet Service Provider. CU no longer provides free dial-up service. Keyboard Shortcuts

This series offers a simple computer tip or trick each month.

I love keyboard shortcuts to quickly and easily maneuver around my documents. Keyboard shortcuts are combinations of two or more keys that, when pressed, can be used to perform a task that would typically require a mouse. Keyboard shortcuts can make it easier to interact with your computer, saving you time and effort as you work with Windows and other programs.

Here are some of my favorites.

Simply hold down the Ctrl key while pressing the second key.

For the Copy and Cut shortcuts, be sure to highlight the text first by holding down your mouse key and sweeping across the text. To Paste, put your cursor where you want the new text.

The Ctrl+A shortcut will highlight all the text in a document or area so you can copy, cut, or delete it.

Press this Key:	To Do This:
Ctrl+C (or Ctrl+Insert)	Copy the selected item
Ctrl+X	Cut the selected item
Ctrl+V (or Shift+Insert)	Paste the selected item
Ctrl+Z	Undo an action
Ctrl+Y	Redo an action
Ctrl+A	Select all items in a document or window
Ctrl+S	Saves your work

There are many more shortcuts. For a full list of keyboard shortcuts, visit this website...Microsoft Keyboard Shortcuts.
