He has been on the staff of the University of Colorado for more than 50 years. Currently he serves as Curator of the Glenn Miller archives. He was awarded an Honorary Doctorate for his work with the Glenn Miller archives and his many years of service to CU.

President's Message

I'd like to do two things in my message this month: 1) Give you a brief update on some of the activities of your Board and 2) Talk about a volunteer program sponsored by the CU System to benefit the university and inform citizens--the CU Advocates program.

I want to let you know about the existence of this wonderful service opportunity and to urge you to get involved, if you aren't already. I believe that we, as members of the UWC, are uniquely qualified to take on this role. Being an 'advocate' will keep you informed about what's going on with CU and higher ed, and it will also afford you opportunities to be further involved, if you wish. As examples, I find real value in the emails that I receive getting first-hand information and learning more fully about the pressing issues facing the university. I've also joined others as we've gone down to the state Capitol on CU's behalf.

1) Update on Board Activities:

- Thanks go to Karon Johnson, with some help from Carol Etges, for putting out a terrific first/September issue of MESSAGES. I think you will agree with me that was wonderful. (No doubt this issue is, as well.)
- Our Fall Member Coffee was September 11. It was a fine opportunity to connect with friends, join Interest Groups, renew your Membership, and sign up for our wonderful Lecture Luncheon series. Mary Anna Dunn and Mary Huffman, along with AD Chesley (and others), have been hard at work planning, and putting in place, these fine events.
- The board is working on an initiative to see if we can better streamline the functioning of board operations and communications. Diana King, one of our computer gurus, is spearheading this initiative for us. You will likely hear more about this concept in the future.
- One of our board members has suggested that, when we email one another or put out 'mass' emails, we begin the Subject Line with "UWC. . ." That way, folks won't delete the email if they are unfamiliar with the name of the sender, which has sometimes been the case. I've been trying to remember to apply this procedure myself--seems a good practice.
- I think we're off to a good start to the year with lots of great things planned.

2) CU Advocates. Its predecessor, the Ambassadors program was launched ten years ago by President Hoffman—it subsequently transitioned into the Advocates program. Those who were signed on to be 'ambassadors' defaulted to becoming a CU Advocate unless they specified otherwise. Michele McKinney, CU's External Affairs and Advocacy Director, gave me the following information, which I've modified and shortened (with her permission). See next page for CU Advocates.....

CU Advocates Program invites volunteers to promote University

Members spread message of CU's value, challenges across Colorado, and beyond

Have you wanted to meet or write to your elected official about critical legislative matters to CU? Have you thought about inviting a CU faculty expert to speak at a community forum on important topics? Have you thought about hosting a gathering in your community on the importance of higher education? CU Advocates, a University of Colorado program launched in the fall of 2011, educates and engages a network of individuals who care about the University of Colorado and want to get involved to promote CU's contributions around the state with elected officials, the media, and business and civic communities in Colorado.

The foundation of the program, an initiative of the Office of the President, is a network of educated, engaged and active volunteers who value the CU campuses and are willing to promote their educational, research and economic contributions. They stay informed on advocacy activities and issues and help ensure that CU's voice is heard in our communities and throughout Colorado, in the state Capitol, and in Washington, D.C.--often through social media channels and special events. The program is aligned with CU's operations in alumni relations, fundraising, government relations, admissions and campus outreach to find and develop opportunities to connect more people with the campuses.

Advocacy tools and information are housed on the website for advocates to use in communicating CU's contributions, opportunities and challenges. Sharing your story of CU's importance to Colorado can help put a face on the university and will provide compelling evidence for state investment in higher education.

The program draws on university supporters from many communities, including CU students, alumni, parents, faculty, staff, donors, and business and community leaders. They are asked to promote the university but also will have the opportunity to become more engaged with CU through volunteering, recommending students, hosting events, mentoring, speaking engagements, contacting elected officials and touring the campuses.

CU Advocates also receive invitations to special advocacy-only events as well as complimentary tickets to campus activities including sporting events. New members receive a welcome packet including an advocacy guide, CU pin, luggage tags and coupons for discounts on CU apparel.

"CU Advocates will be encouraged to share their CU story with their community and on the program's website, said Michele McKinney. "Perhaps a professor enlightened a student to discover a career path, or grandsons and granddaughters enrolled at a CU campus are becoming happy and successful young adults. Maybe a CU physician saved a loved one's life. These are the stories that define CU. By sharing these stories, we bring to life the value of our campuses."

It takes less than three minutes to join CU Advocates and to be on your way to making a difference. Please go to: www.cu.edu/cuadvocates or call 303.860.5622.

The Use of Club Directory Information....

...from Jeannie Thompson

Please review this reminder: The Club has a policy about the use of Directory information. Recently, we've received a number of requests to use our Directory information to notify members of outside events. Some of these events center around divisive issues and some don't. To the UWC, however, the purpose doesn't matter. Article VI, Section 1 of our Constitution states, "The UWC membership list may not be used for commercial solicitation, political activities, or ideological purposes without the expressed consent of the Executive Board of the UWC."

As much as we want to be good citizens of the community, we can't use our communication tools as a Community Bulletin Board. There are numerous logistical, as well as ideological, reasons why this is the case. Also, please remember that our printed materials, including MESSAGES, are primarily intended for the use of current and prospective members. Please, let's respect our members' privacy in all that we do. Thank you.

Nominations Committee Needs You!

Let us know if you would like to serve on the UWC Executive Board in an elected or appointed position.

Contact any of the nominating committee members with suggestions for leadership: Virginia Stringi, Kathy Randall, Karen Diamond, Mary Anna Dunn or Ami Sadler to volunteer yourself or to suggest other UWC members to serve on the board.

Opera Brunch Sneak Peek...

Mark your calendars for Sunday March 17, 2013 for our annual Opera Brunch, starting at 11:30 a.m. at the University Memorial Center, and followed by CU's Opera presentation of Falstaff at Macky Auditorium at 2:00 p.m.

Falstaff weaves the tale of a portly, greedy knight who pledges his love to multiple married women. When the women discover his deception, they attempt revenge, involving a parade of comic characters who leave us to conclude that "Everything in the world is jest!"

Reservation forms will be printed in subsequent MESSAGES newsletters. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please contact: Pat Thompson, UWC Opera Event Chair: 303-926-4210 or stelibsco@mac.com.

UWC Awards...

The University Women's Club Scholarship

The University Women's Club established a scholarship fund in 1982 to help older students complete their degrees. Recipients must be at least 24 years of age and still working on their baccalaureate degree. Because they are older, they often face the difficult task of combining study with family and job responsibilities, and the UWC scholarship often can help them reduce their work responsibilities and concentrate on their education. The awards range from $1,000 to $4,000. Funds come from individual donations and an endowment established to help support the scholarships. As of 2012, $139,000 has been awarded to 97 students.

Recipients are chosen based on their financial need, their GPA, their service, their initiative, and their leadership. Scholarship Committee members read all the applications carefully and compare and discuss their ratings before deciding. Scholarship winners are honored guests at the University Women's Club Annual Spring Luncheon which this year is April 16, 2013.

The 2011-12 Scholarship Committee consisted of Charlotte Corbridge, Jill Grubb, Pat Hagerty, Frieda Holley, Regina Macy, and Meg Preo. Frieda Holley served as chair. Most members will be continuing through 2012-13, but if you are interested in serving on the committee, especially in being chair, please contact Frieda Holley.

Thank You to the following who donated to the UWC Scholarship Fund in August

Irene Bock	Doris Goodrich	Marian Safran
Elizabeth Cole	Ellen Holland	Beverly Schumacer
Frances Dahlberg	Diana King	Nancy Schwiesow
Edith Dell'Apa	Mary Jo Quinby	Ruth Smith
Kitty Edwards	Ami Sadler	Nancy Wittemyer

Margaret Willard Award

Margaret Willard began her career at CU as an English Instructor, wife of an history professor, and became the first president of the Faculty Wives' Club which has evolved into a more encompassing group, our University Women's Club. Though the original group liked to chat and sip tea, they grew in involvement in philanthropic matters. According to Sylvia Pettem, a Boulder local historian, these included providing eye-glasses and books to needy students, milk funds for schools, implementing student loans, and more.

The social aspects of their lives turned more and more to helping others as the world progressed through the Great Depression and World War 2. By 1957, they added fund raising and expanded the philanthropic work by providing financial scholarships for women, non-traditional females, who would not otherwise have been able to continue their education. We continue this tradition and recently have included men for scholarship consideration. Now UWC has grown to include interest and service groups and accept all women whether they have a CU association or not.

Since 1993, in May, at the Honors Reception, we present the Margaret Willard to a woman or women who have exemplified the traits of our predecessors, and in doing so honor all women. Past recipients have included Patricia Limerick, Val Havlick, Carlen Penfold, Ruth M. Wright, Claudine Garby, and Ceal Barry. All our honorees are exemplary role models who exercise initiative in their endeavors and in doing so bring honor to all women and to our University.

Please submit a nomination (form on page 10) by March 7, 2013.

UWC Scholars

Congratulations to our 2012-13 Scholarship Winners!!

Diane M. Bunch, an accounting major, attended the University of California at Riverside before deciding to stay at home with her children. During that time, she and her husband started a successful business constructing a giant bubble maker, and that started her interest in business and entrepreneurship. She brings substantial business experience to her classes having worked at Big Lots in New Mexico, where as store manager, she took over an underperforming store and it became the highest volume store in the state. Her work experience helped the two CU Group Project Management teams, of which she was a member, win first place in university competitions.

Stephanie Rae Schafer, an English and Studio Arts major, attended Front Range Community College and UC Denver. She is interested in digital painting and since the summer of 2010 she has created and maintained a digital webcomic called Dictionary Girl that can be found at <http://dictionarygirl.net/>. She works at CU's Office of Information Technology as a student technician and for more than two years has participated in the unit's hiring process. Noting that there were few female employees, she took some of her concerns about institutional barriers to her supervisor, who subsequently addressed many of the issues. She was pleased that she was able to effect a change and hopes to continue supporting women in technology.

Grazina Dazyte, an economics major, emigrated from Lithuania when she was 21. Grazina worked as a Personal Banker at Wells Fargo Northglenn branch where she received two top branch banker awards and she also worked as a translator/interpreter of Lithuanian and Russian at the Justice Information Center, providing interpretations during criminal and civil proceedings. Recently employed by Chase Bank, Grazina was recognized as a Top Assistant Manager in Colorado and the West. Grazina is the single mother of a six-year old son and is active in the Lithuanian American Community of Colorado, volunteering as treasurer, providing financial education to members, and teaching Lithuanian at a Lithuanian school in Denver.

Ryan George Rasmussen, a history and political science major, graduated from Front Range Community College. While at Front Range he was founder and president of Students for Sustainability, a student club dedicated to raising awareness of sustainability and environmental issues. He was also President of Phi Theta Kappa, an International Honor Society, which during his tenure, organized an educational and service event "Floods in Pakistan" which resulted in the chapter receiving a "Distinguished Chapter" award at the International Convention. A silent auction during the event raised enough money to rebuild a school in Pakistan.

Advertising Opportunity in the UWC Directory

Our University Women's Club Directory is a very good way to effectively advertise and at the same time make a direct contribution to the UWC scholarship fund at the University of Colorado Boulder.

Advertising in the UWC Directory/Handbook is open to anyone who owns or would like to promote a business while making a donation to the club, receiving recognition for the donation, and advertising in the directory. There are $100 and $50 levels for placing ads in the UWC Handbook/Directory. At the $100 level, a half page ad is placed; at the $50 level, a quarter page ad is placed. Both levels receive mention in the UWC newsletter, MESSAGES.

Please consider this or encourage someone you know or a business you frequent to participate. To place an advertisement, please contact Diana King (303-530-1860; diana_s_king@yahoo.com). All Sponsorship Ad donations go toward raising funds for scholarships at the University of Colorado Boulder. Please submit your Sponsorship Ad information by October 15, 2012.
